The English Major

Handbook

2024-2025

“When I look back, I am so impressed again with the life-giving power of literature. If I were a young person today, trying to gain a sense of myself in the world, I would do that again by reading, just as I did when I was young.”

– Maya Angelou

Student Responsibilities

Welcome to the English major!

The major you have chosen will foster your analytical skills, stimulate your creativity, and strengthen your ability to communicate in any situation. It will help you become the kind of researcher who can find the answer to any question, and it will encourage you to become the kind of thinker who generates brand new questions. It will also provide you with the opportunity to read and discuss with professors and other students the most exciting, the most engrossing, the most influential novels, short stories, poetry, drama, and essays written in the English language.

This handbook is designed to make sure that you are prepared to take full advantage of all of the opportunities and experiences the English Department offers, and it is designed to help you obtain your Bachelor of Arts Degree in English from Mississippi State University with as little confusion about the technicalities as possible.

To these ends, please keep in mind the following responsibilities for all English majors:

1. Be familiar with your English Major Handbook.
2. Check your MSU email regularly. This is the primary means that the university, the department, and your professors will use to contact you.
3. Make an appointment with your English Department advisor during the advising period every semester. You will get an email when it's time to sign up for advising. The advising periods are typically in the last two weeks of October and March, immediately preceding preregistration. If you haven't met with your advisor, you can't preregister, and that means you're unlikely to get all of the courses you want. All you have to do is call the English Department at 662-325-3644 or go to Lee 2000, and an appointment will be set up for you with the appropriate advisor.
4. Be prepared for your advising appointment. Your advisor is there to answer questions, help you find information you need, and let you know whether your course choices are wise ones—but they're still your choices. In order to make informed ones, check your Degree Works through Banner and keep a record of all courses you have taken on the Check Sheet on page 13; this way, you'll always be able to see at a glance what requirements you have left.
5. If you find that you are unable to pre-register for the courses that you have chosen and that your advisor has approved, go ahead and sign up for substitute classes, but then inform your advisor of the substitutions you have made as soon as possible so that your advisor can confirm that they will satisfy the requirements you need them to.

SAVE YOUR PAPERS

Make a habit of saving the papers you write in your English courses—electronic copies and hard copies if possible.

Why?

First, your papers are your work—they represent your knowledge, your skills, and your creativity. Your family or those close to you might like to see them, and you might want to read them again someday.

Second, when you are a senior, the English Department will ask you to submit a portfolio of five papers of your choice from various courses you have taken to help us in assessing the English program.

Third, a professor might nominate one of your papers for a writing award.

Fourth, you may want to develop an upper-level paper into an article you submit for publication in an undergraduate journal.

Fifth, you might need to choose one of them as a writing sample for an internship application, a graduate school application, or even a job application.

Contacts in the English Department

Faculty offices are in both Lee Hall and Allen Hall.

The English student lounge is in Allen 270; you are welcome to hang out there between classes, and it will be the site for meetings of Bully's Bards, MSU's English club.

The main department office is Lee 2000, 662-325-3644; it is staffed from 8:00 to 5:00 every weekday. This is where you will sign up for your preregistration advising appointment every semester; it's also the place to go if you don't know who to ask about your problem or question.

If you have questions about what courses to take to complete your English major, how close you are to graduation, or how to go about planning a minor in another field, you may contact your advisor or Dr. Ginger Pizer, Director of Undergraduate Studies. Dr. Pizer will also be happy to talk to you about the Linguistics minor. You may e-mail her at gpizer@english.msstate.edu or call her at 662-325-2240. You will find Dr. Pizer in Lee 2305 during posted office hours.

If you have concerns about or problems with a course you are taking or any other departmental matters, you may contact Dr. Lara Dodds, the head of the English Department. Her office is located in Lee 2304, and you can contact her by email at ldodds@english.msstate.edu or by calling the main department number: 662-325-3644.

If you would rather discuss your question or concern with another student who can find out information or reach out to authorities on your behalf, you can contact the department's student liaisons at studentliaison@english.msstate.edu or on Instagram @englishliaisonmsu.

If you would like to find out about internship opportunities, the internship course, or the career preparation resources at English@Work, you may contact Ms. Abigail Voller. You will find her in Lee 2511, or you may e-mail her at lav9@english.msstate.edu or call her at 662-325-2376.

If you would like to find out more about creative writing, including the Creative Writing minor, you may contact Ms. Becky Hagenston (bhagenston@english.msstate.edu, Lee 2006).

If you would like to find out more about the Film minor, you may contact Dr. Andrea Spain at aspain@english.msstate.edu or in Lee 2506.

If you would like to find out more about the TESOL minor, you may contact Dr. Megan Smith. Her office is Lee 2502, and you can reach her by e-mail at ms4004@msstate.edu.

If you would like advice about going on for a law degree and how you might best plan your undergraduate courses to prepare for law school, you may contact Dr. Matthew Little. You will find him in Lee 2510, or you may e-mail him at littmatt@ra.msstate.edu.

If you would like to find out about graduate study in English at Mississippi State, you may contact Dr. Shalyn Claggett, Director of Graduate Studies. You will find her in Lee 2505, or you may e-mail her at src173@msstate.edu.

Professorial Faculty Currently Teaching in the Department

What follows is only a partial list of the people who contribute to the English Department at MSU. This list of the department's professors, descriptions of their specializations, and contact information may be useful to you as you advance in the major, identify your own special interests, and seek mentoring. English Studies (EN 1111): an introduction to the English major, to be taken in your first fall semester

Survey Courses

All English majors take four courses that take a broad look at English and American literature. Students may take any four of the courses below, as long as they take at least one focused on each of the following: English literature, American literature, pre-1800 literature, and post-1800 literature. (A single course may satisfy multiple criteria simultaneously.)

EN 2213: English Literature Before 1800

EN 2223: English Literature After 1800

EN 2243: American Literature Before 1865

EN 2253: American Literature After 1865

EN 2263: Multi-Ethnic U.S. Literature

EN 2363: Introduction to African American Literature

Critical Writing and Research in Literary Studies (EN 3414): This course will introduce you to critical theories and help you develop the skills in research, analysis, and writing that you will need in your 4000-level literature courses. It is best to take this course at the same time as your last 2000-level survey course; do not take more than one other literature course simultaneously with this one.

4000-level Literature Courses

All English majors take at least five high-level literature courses. The required distribution of these courses has recently changed. If you entered the major under the old curriculum, you may choose to follow either curriculum.

English Elective

All English majors take at least one additional English course, which may be chosen from any of the department's course offerings.

Upper Division Humanities Elective (History, Foreign Language, or Philosophy) OR Study Abroad

Portfolio and Reflective Writing (EN 4111) in your last fall semester as an English major

General Electives

In addition to fulfilling all of these requirements, you will take 5 or 6 free electives (i.e., anything you want) to bring you to the 124-hour minimum for a BA. You may choose to use your electives to earn a minor in another field that will combine with your English major to help you reach your career and academic goals. Many minor requirements also fulfill core or major requirements, so plan ahead for maximum efficiency.

See pp. 25-28 of this handbook for details of the minors offered within the department: Creative Writing, Film Studies, Linguistics, and TESOL (Teaching English to Speakers of Other Languages).

Some common career-oriented minors for English majors include

What to Expect in English 1111: English Studies

English majors are required to take English 1111, a one-credit introduction to the major, and are advised to do so as early as possible. It is only offered in the fall semester.

What we'll do:

1. We'll hear from various professors in the department about their specific fields of study, what opportunities their fields might offer you, and what courses you might take in their fields.
2. We'll hear from former English majors who have experience working in such fields as law, publishing, library science, teaching, and technical writing.
3. We'll talk openly and frankly about succeeding in college and about resources and opportunities available to English majors.

What we'll accomplish:

1. You'll be more prepared to do well in all of your English courses.
2. You'll be better equipped to make decisions that will be best for you as you choose your courses.
3. You'll be ready to start thinking knowledgeably about your career plans.

What to Expect in English 4111: Portfolios and Reflective Writing

English majors are required to take English 4111, a one-credit course on reflective writing, in their last year. It is only offered in the fall semester.

What we'll do:

1. We'll read journal articles to discover the theoretical purposes of writing reflectively. These articles will also illustrate the practical benefits enjoyed by writers and students of literature who learn to reflect on their growth.
2. We'll learn how to write a letter of application and a professional resume, two practical forms of reflective, self-assessing writing vital in the world of work.
3. We'll learn how to assemble portfolios and how to write the centerpiece of the portfolio, the reflective essay.

What we'll accomplish:

1. You'll be prepared to apply for your first job or graduate program.
2. You'll have a portfolio and reflective essay that you will be asked to submit to the Department to help us assess our program.

^a Students with an ACT English subscore of 28+ may take EN 1173 Accelerated English Composition II in their first semester. Students with an ACT English subscore of 32+ who are members of the Honors College may take EN 1113H Honors English Composition II in their first semester. Upon successful completion, they will receive S credit for EN 1103.

^b The major requires fourth semester proficiency in a foreign language. Students with previous background are welcome to start at a higher class level.

^c The math requirement is one 3-hour class, which may be Trigonometry, Statistics, or Calculus. Students with an ACT Math subscore of 24+ may go straight into one of those classes. Those with lower ACT scores must take a math prerequisite course following one of two pathways: College Algebra and Trigonometry or Statistics (6 hours), or Math in Your World and Statistics (6 hours).

^d See Arts & Sciences list for approved courses.

^e Six Social Science classes are required. At least two must come from the Arts & Sciences list. No more than two courses per discipline, covering at least four different disciplines.

^f Students must take three Science classes: one life science course with a lab, one physical science course with a lab, and one more science course in any field, with or without a lab. See Arts & Sciences list for approved courses.

^g Students must take four 2000-level literature courses from the designated list, including at least one focused on each of the following: English literature, American literature, pre-1800 literature, post-1800 literature. A single course may satisfy multiple criteria simultaneously. They may be taken in any order.

^h 4000-level literature courses may be taken in any order. See departmental list for courses approved for each category.

Electives:	Sem	Notes

For English courses that fulfill major requirements, refer to pages 8 and 9.
For courses in all other departments that fulfill requirements, refer to page 15.

As you plan, you need to know the following details that sometimes cause trouble for students who are unaware of them:

1. You need a total of 124 hours for the BA in English. No more than 62 of them may be transferred from a community college.
2. You need a total of 31 hours of upper-division credit (that is, courses at the 3000 or 4000 level) from the College of Arts and Sciences at MSU in order to graduate. 25 of those hours are required (your upper-division English courses and an UD Humanities), but remember the other 6 hours as you choose the rest of your courses.
3. You need at least a C in all of your English courses at the 2000 level and above. Non-English requirements can be satisfied with a D.
4. You should take EN 3414, Critical Writing and Research, before your first 4000-level literature course.
5. If you receive financial aid from the state of Mississippi (e.g., MTAG, MESH, HELP), you must complete at least 15 hours per semester. If you do not have 15 hours of requirements remaining in your final semester, you may apply for a waiver. Other sources of financial aid require only 12 hours per semester.

A few notes on Degree Works:

This checklist is a duplicate of the DegreeWorks audit available to you through Banner. This online tool is very useful, but there can be problems with relying on it exclusively, because it is only as good as its programming. For example, it doesn't know what to do with special topics courses or many transfer courses. When in doubt, ask your advisor. If something is showing up wrong in your Degree Works audit, tell your advisor or Dr. Pizer, and they'll get the dean's office to move it to the right place.

In Case of Academic Trouble

Hopefully your progress through the program will go smoothly, but here are some ways to deal with bumps if they occur. See the academic calendar (<https://www.registrar.msstate.edu/calendars/academic-calendar>) for specific deadlines, and always feel free to contact your advisor or Dr. Pizer for help with any of these processes.

Dropping a class for a W

The last day to drop a class with no record of it on your transcript is the fifth class day of the semester. Between that point and 5 PM on the 36th class day, you may drop a class for a grade of W; this will show on your transcript but not affect your GPA. To do this,

- fill out the add-drop form from the registrar's website (<https://www.registrar.msstate.edu/students>)
- get your advisor's signature (you don't need the instructor's signature to drop, though it's polite to let them know you're leaving)
- bring the form to the 5th floor of Allen Hall to get a signature from the Dean of Arts & Sciences
- bring it to the registrar's office in Garner Hall for processing

Because this process has so many steps, don't leave it until the last minute! If you need to maintain your hours for financial aid purposes (15 hours for aid from the state of Mississippi (MTAG, MESSG, HELP); 12 hours for all other aid), you may replace the dropped class with a second mini-term class. Do not sign up for a second mini-term class if you don't have to; instead, use your lighter schedule to focus on your other classes. There are rarely classes available in the second mini-term that will satisfy requirements for you beyond elective hours.

Withdrawing from the semester

At any time until only ten class days remain in the semester, you may withdraw from the university entirely by submitting a withdrawal request through Banner. All of your classes will be listed on your transcript with grades of W, and your GPA will not be affected. Depending on when you withdraw, you may get a partial tuition refund; see the registrar's website for the refund schedule. Withdrawal may affect your financial aid; check with the financial aid office before submitting the withdrawal request.

Academic forgiveness

You may apply for academic forgiveness through Banner for up to 9 hours of courses in which you earned a D or an F. It is best not to use it for any except 3-hour courses; that's the only way you can apply it to three courses. The course and grade will remain on your transcript, but the grade will be marked with *S and will not be calculated in your GPA; the course cannot be used to satisfy any requirements. Academic forgiveness applies only for academic purposes (i.e., not for financial aid requirements) and only internal to MSU (i.e., other schools that you send your transcript to when transferring or applying for graduate school are unlikely to honor it). Its purpose is to help students who would otherwise be placed on probation, suspension, or dismissal, or who would not achieve the required 2.0 GPA to graduate.

Retroactive withdrawal

In extreme circumstances, there is a procedure for applying to withdraw from a semester retroactively, within one calendar year of the disastrous semester. This procedure is complex, and approval is not guaranteed, so if you need to withdraw, do your very best to do it during the semester instead. However, be aware that the possibility exists, and talk to Dr. Pizer if you need to pursue it.

Stop digging, and build back gradually

If you have had an unfortunate semester, avoid the temptation to pile on extra work in the following semester in an attempt to catch back up quickly. Such attempts most often lead to a deeper hole, a longer delay, and greater expense. Instead, work on repairing the issues behind that semester's academic troubles, and schedule manageable course loads that will allow you to succeed academically and build your GPA back up gradually.

English Department Scholarships

To apply for any MSU scholarship, log into MyState, look in Banner under “Financial Aid and Scholarships,” and click “Submit/Revise General Scholarship Application.” You’ll be asked to log in again immediately, and then you will be ready to complete the “General Application.” Remember to “Save” as you go. After you complete the General Application, several scholarships may be suggested to you by the system—please feel free to look into these.

The system may not suggest our English Department scholarships to you—you will have to seek those one by one in the system and complete the extra requirements for each. At this point, it’s a good idea to go to the English Department website, look under “English,” and click on “Scholarships.” Read about each scholarship you wish to apply for and what extra steps you need to take, including asking for letters of recommendation and, in some cases, writing an essay. You should feel free to email the faculty contact for each scholarship with any questions you may have.

Internships

Internships allow you to gain valuable work experience, apply your knowledge and skills in your potential field, and make professional connections with others in your industry; internships also allow you to test-drive an industry to ensure that it is the best fit for you. As an English major, you are cultivating skills and knowledge that will help you stand out and excel at your career, such as effective communication, research and analysis skills, and independent and creative-complex thinking, and you can enhance these skills through an internship. In general, interning and volunteering show potential employers that you are committed to your future and are actively learning more about your career path, giving you more weight in their employment considerations.

EN 3333: Internship in English:

EN 3333 offers junior and senior English majors and minors with a GPA of 2.8 or higher the opportunity to apply for placement in a semester-long English internship for three (3) academic credit hours (English elective credit). Typically, there are paid and unpaid internships, and both types can receive course credit if the student is enrolled in EN 3333 and if the internship adheres to the course parameters for EN 3333. In order to receive course credit, students must take EN 3333 during their internship term and complete the course guidelines along with their internship. (Please contact the Internship Coordinator for your options if your internship occurs during the summer or fall instead of the spring.) The internship course consists of supervised work experience and realistic job training of at least 120 hours in related English areas and 30 hours of reflective coursework during the semester, with evaluations by both instructor and supervisor. Students must receive the permission of the instructor of EN 3333 in order to add the course to their spring schedule.

The benefits of the course EN 3333 include offering a network of support via a community of interns and instructor along with reflective work that will help hone students' professional abilities. Our current interns have had varied experiences that have cultivated their professional abilities and taught them invaluable lessons before entering the work force. Some have even been offered jobs based on their internship performance!

Independent Internship Information (without course credit):

English students can, of course, complete internships independent from the Internship course, and these students are still encouraged to discuss their options with the internship coordinator to ensure the best internship experience possible. In addition, students who are interested in internships but are unsure how to proceed are welcome to meet with the internship coordinator to get clearer ideas of their options.

Available Funding: The College of Arts and Sciences is currently offering undergraduate grants to help fund internships. Please ask the Internship Coordinator for more information.

For further information, please contact Internship Coordinator L. Abigail Voller at lav9@english.msstate.edu to set up an appointment.

English@Work

English@Work is a Canvas account available to English majors, English minors, and English Secondary Education majors for professional development opportunities, such as information on internships, résumés, job interviews, etc. There is information there for you to peruse and even to practice – for example, if you would like to get feedback on your résumé or cover letter, you can submit it to the English@Work page, and you'll receive individualized comments and edits in return. If you aren't sure what you want to do for your career, I can help you explore options, including putting you in contact with people in the prospective fields of your interest area(s).

In addition to the information that is readily available on the Canvas page, English@Work also provides both in-person and Canvas workshops on professional development topics like the ones listed below, plus more:

- Internships & EN 3333: Internship in English
- Résumés and Curriculum Vitae
- Cover Letters
- Setting up Professional Accounts
- How to Conduct Job Searches
- Interviews & Mock Interviews & Dinner Interviews
- How to do an Elevator Pitch
- How to Negotiate the Job Offer

These workshops are excellent opportunities to meet other majors/minors and learn from each other, learn more about what comes after college, develop important skills and professional behaviors, and learn how to find your future path (or paths!).

You can check out the English@Work Canvas page for more information on internships and professional development – the page is readily available on your Canvas Dashboard.

(Only majors are automatically added to the Canvas page because of ITS factors – if you are an English minor or Secondary Ed major, then email me with your NetID, and I'll add you to the Canvas page.)

For further information, please contact Internship Coordinator L. Abigail Voller at lav9@english.msstate.edu to set up an appointment.

SIGMA TAU DELTA

ΣΤΔ

The English Honor Society

Who is eligible?

English majors with a G.P.A. of 3.0 overall and in 12 hours of English courses after composition.

How and when can one join?

Students with these qualifications (usually second-semester sophomores) are notified that they are eligible and are invited to join. There is an induction ceremony each fall semester.

How much does it cost?

There is a one-time induction fee of $40.00.

What does the group do?

The group meets monthly to plan the induction ceremony and other events and to develop a service project for the year.

What are the advantages?

ΣΤΔ members are eligible to apply for a number of scholarships (including one for study abroad) and internships, as well as to enter writing and website competitions. ΣΤΔ also offers opportunities for participation in their annual conference and submission to their literary magazine and their scholarly journal.

You can find out more about this national English honor society at www.english.org.

You can find out more about MSU's chapter of Sigma Tau Delta by stopping by Dr. DeGabriele's office (Allen 270D), emailing him at pdegab@english.msstate.edu or calling 325-3644.

About the Writing Center:

The Mississippi State University Writing Center dedicates itself to helping all MSU students develop as writers and critical thinkers. We are available in person and online to writers who want to think about, talk about, and work on their writing and the ideas they want that writing to communicate. We're open almost 60 hours a week and offer 30- and 60-minute consultations as well as walk-in appointments, free of charge, to all MSU students. We are prepared to work with writers on a variety of genres (including assignments for class, professional documents and materials, and creative works as well), and we are also prepared to work with writers during any stage of their writing processes (to brainstorm, develop, revise, and edit). It's a good idea to think of us as a place to work on your writing, rather than as a finishing service. We won't edit your writing—we will, however, work with you to develop and support ideas, locate and use research, and address audiences appropriately. We'll also work with you to become a better self-editor.

You can schedule an appointment three different ways:

- You can register and schedule with our online system at <http://msstate.mywconline.com>.
- You can call our main location at 662-325-1045 during working hours, and one of our staff members will assist you in registering and scheduling through our online system.
- You can stop in at our main location during working hours, and one of our staff members will assist you in registering and scheduling through our online system.

We also take walk-in appointments at our locations, as long as we have a writing consultant who is not already scheduled.

Locations

Directions and Information

For all appointments, whether in person or online, you can schedule for either 30 minutes or 1 hour using our scheduling website, <http://msstate.mywconline.com>. Walk-in appointments are available and are taken on a first-come, first-served basis.

Mitchell Memorial Library, Room 2335 (Main Location)

Our main location is now in the Research Instruction and Outreach section on the library's main floor. We are located past the Computer Commons and directly across the hall from the Digital Media Center. We have daytime and evening appointments available in our main location.

Online

Once you make an online appointment, log back in to <http://msstate.mywconline.com> five to ten minutes before the start of your appointment. Then, open this appointment and click "Start or Join Online Consultation." This will open your online session and connect you with a writing consultant. Our Online location is open during the evenings, and we have online appointments available at our main location during the day.

For more information about our Center, the work we do, current contests, updates, and more, visit our main website at <https://www.writingcenter.msstate.edu/> and follow us on Instagram @msstate_writing. See <http://msstate.mywconline.com> for this semester's hours for all locations.

Creative Writing

Creative Writing at Mississippi State focuses on the study of fiction and poetry writing, including the learning of techniques, forms, and approaches of creative expression. Creative writing offers students the opportunity to use language as a means of making art that explores the complexity of human experience. A background in creative writing prepares students for a variety of future paths, including teaching, editing, publishing, law, advertising, public relations, and any career that places emphasis on the written word.

UNDERGRADUATE MINOR IN CREATIVE WRITING

The minor in creative writing requires 18 semester hours (six courses) with a grade of C or above in each course. Transfer credit awarded if approved by the Director of the Creative Writing Program.

REQUIRED COURSES FOR THE MINOR

- EN 3303 Creative Writing:
Basic techniques in writing fiction and poetry; meter and rhyme, metaphor and image, plot, characterization, and dramatic detail.
- EN 3803 Intermediate Poetry
An intermediate course in the craft and art of poetry writing, focusing on techniques such as lineation, formal strategies, and poetic language.
- EN 3903 Intermediate Fiction
An intermediate course in the craft and art of fiction writing, focusing on techniques such as setting, dialogue, and characterization.

1-2 OF THE FOLLOWING COURSES

- EN 4303 Craft of Poetry:
The craft and practice of writing poetry. (For students who have taken EN 3803 or who have been approved by writing faculty.)
- EN 4313 Craft of Fiction:
The craft and practice of writing fiction. (For students who have taken EN 3903 or who have been approved by writing faculty.)

1-2 LITERATURE COURSES BEYOND THOSE USED TO SATISFY ENGLISH MAJOR REQUIREMENTS

We particularly recommend the following:

- EN 4943 Form and Theory of Fiction:
Theoretical aspects of fictional technique, genre, style; readings include novels, short stories, and writings about the craft of fiction.
- EN 4953 Form and Theory of Poetry:
Poetic theory; formal conventions, techniques, and innovations in the tradition of English and American poetry.

You may count two of your Creative Writing Minor classes toward your English major: one for the non-literature requirement and one for your English elective. The other four classes will count as general electives.

The Intermediate and Craft classes have prerequisites and are each offered only once a year (see the course rotation on p. 16). Plan ahead to make sure you can fit in all of your minor classes before graduation!

In addition to taking courses in creative writing, students benefit from a robust visiting writers series and may join the staff of Jabberwock Review, the university's national literary journal. The Shackouls Honors College regularly hosts open mic nights and produces an undergraduate creative arts journal, The Streetcar, specifically for student writing.

Undergraduate Minor in Film Studies

The Minor in Film Studies provides students with a strong background in the study of film language, history, theory, and production, emphasizing varied filmmaking practices throughout the world. The minor is open to undergraduate students in good standing in any major.

Curriculum

The minor requires a minimum of 19 semester hours with a grade of C or above in each course. Possible courses are listed below. Up to two additional Special Topics, Honors Courses, or Directed Individual Study courses will count toward the minor when approved by the advisor of the Minor in Film Studies. Other substitutions are unlikely, but if a student believes that a non-listed course is centrally related to the field of Film, the student may petition the Film Studies Committee to approve counting the course toward the minor. Courses that are cross-listed in more than one department may be taken under any cross-listing.

UNDERGRADUATE MINOR IN LINGUISTICS

Linguistics is the study of language, including the structure of sounds, words, and sentences, how our brains process it, how people learn it, and the roles it plays in our societies. Studying linguistics raises students' awareness of patterns in the language of their daily lives and can contribute to careers such as language teaching, editing and publishing, speech therapy, advertising, and more.

The Minor in Linguistics is open to undergraduate students in any major.

CURRICULUM

The minor requires a minimum of 18 semester hours with a grade of C or above in each course. Possible courses are listed below. Up to two additional Special Topics or Directed Individual Study courses will count toward the minor when approved in advance by the Linguistics Committee. Courses that are cross-listed in more than one department may be taken under any cross-listing.

TESOL

TEACHING ENGLISH TO SPEAKERS OF OTHER LANGUAGES

MINOR

AT MISSISSIPPI STATE UNIVERSITY

Prepare for opportunities abroad
Learn techniques for language teaching
Work with English language learners in Mississippi

Five courses are required for the TESOL Minor:

Two courses in theoretical background:

- EN 4403/6403 Introduction to Linguistics
(in your first semester in the certificate program)
- EN 4463/6463 Studies in Second Language Acquisition

One of the following courses on the grammatical structure of English:

- EN 4443/6443 English Syntax
- EN 3423 Descriptive English Grammar
(for undergraduate Elementary and Secondary English/Language Arts Education majors only)

Two of the following courses in language teaching methodology:

- EN 4453/6453, Methods in TESOL
- EN 4433/6433, Approaches to TESOL
- EN 4493/6493 TESOL Practicum (study abroad)

Note: On its own, the TESOL Minor does not lead to K-12 ESL certification, which is required to teach in the public school system in the U.S. However, the minor can be added to a current or in-progress Mississippi educator's license to obtain an ESL supplemental endorsement.

Contact Information: Megan Smith, ms4004@msstate.edu
Or visit our website: <https://www.english.msstate.edu/linguistics/tesol/>

Requirements for graduation:

Courses:

You will need to take all courses and fulfill all requirements as explained on pages 13-14.

Grades and GPA:

You need at least a C in all English courses at the 2000 level and above. Non-English requirements may be satisfied with Ds. Both your overall GPA and your MSU GPA will need to be at least 2.0.

Senior Checksheet:

When you have completed 75 credits, you will be notified that you must see the Director of Undergraduate Studies in English to complete your 75-Hour Checksheet during the next advising period. The checksheet takes into account all courses you have completed and lists all that you have left to complete in order to earn your degree. It is checked and signed by you, the Director of Undergraduate Studies in English, and the Associate Dean of Arts & Sciences. If your 75-Hour Checksheet is not completed on time, you will be placed on hold, and you will not be allowed to register for the following semester.

Application for Graduation:

During your final semester at MSU, you will apply to graduate through Banner. During this process, you will also apply for any minors you expect to earn. Pay attention to the deadline in the Academic Calendar and in emails from the Registrar's Office to avoid a late fee.

Some Advice about Letters of Recommendation

Whom to ask:

Keep this in mind from the time you take your first English courses: the most effective recommendations come from professors who have read your work, talked to you about your work during office hours, and heard your contributions to class discussions. Identify individuals who know your work in these ways, and then email or stop by office hours to ascertain whether they will be willing to write you a recommendation.

When to ask:

Be sure to give those you ask clear deadlines and plenty of time (at least two weeks) to meet them. Even when the recommendation includes a simple online form, an accompanying letter is nearly always expected. Writing recommendations takes time, so plan accordingly. Never give a professor's contact information to a program you're applying to without asking the professor.

Information to provide:

Be sure to give your recommenders clear submission instructions or tell them how they will receive those instructions from the institutions you're applying to. Also tell them the specific program you're applying to and share materials that will help them write their letters (e.g., a draft of any required application essays, copies of work you did for their classes). When you are submitting your recommenders' names to the institutions, you will be offered the choice of waiving your right to access the recommendation. Students typically choose to waive this right, because it guarantees that the recommendation has been written in confidence and is therefore likely to be honest and complete—such a recommendation may well be taken more seriously than one that is open to you.

Write a thank-you note:

Your recommender would also be very glad to know how the application process turns out!

Careers for English Majors

“I love English majors. I love how smart they are. I love how well read they are. I love their ability to write well and think critically, and most of all, I love to hire them. For my money, I think English majors are a great choice for any entrepreneur’s next employee or intern.”

- Steve Strauss. “Why Entrepreneurs Should Hire English Majors.” USA Today, July 8, 2016.

“Looking back at the tech teams that I’ve built at my companies, it’s evident that individuals with liberal arts degrees are by far the sharpest, best-performing software developers and technology leaders. ... If more tech hires held a philosophy or English degree with some programming on the side, we might in the end create better leaders in technology and life.”

- David Kalt. “Why I Was Wrong About Liberal-Arts Majors.” Wall Street Journal, June 1, 2016.

The skills in research, writing, and critical thinking that you develop as an English major are applicable to a wide variety of careers. With such a broad range of possibilities before you, you might be having trouble choosing among them, but there are a number of resources to help you decide how to put your English major to work for you.

The English Department’s Career Mentor program brings professionals with an undergraduate degree in English to your English Studies class (EN 1111) and makes them available to you by email to answer your career questions. See information about the current career mentors here: <https://www.english.msstate.edu/career-mentors>. For contact information for the career mentors, ask the professor who taught your EN 1111 class.

Over 35 MSU English alumni have written their widely varied career stories to be posted on the department website at <https://www.english.msstate.edu/msu-english-alumni-stories>. Take a look to see where they’ve gone professionally with an English major.

The English department has connections to internship opportunities and career development resources; see pp. 19-20 of this handbook to find out more.

The Career Center on campus has excellent advisors and computer resources to help you assess your own skills and interests, research fields you don’t know much about yet, and look for specific job opportunities. They also have information on internships and summer jobs, so don’t wait until your last semester to visit. To get started, check out their website (<http://www.career.msstate.edu/>) and/or contact Amy Skelton, the Career Center’s coordinator for Arts & Sciences majors, at askelton@career.msstate.edu.

As you get ready to make use of these resources, give some thought to which of the skills you have developed as an English major you would like to make the center of your career: Writing? Reading? Analysis? Research? Or is it all about the literature for you? Whatever your answer to that question, the following will help you get started thinking about the possibilities:

Writing

If what you want is to write, you should look for jobs in all of the obvious places and the less obvious ones. You might enjoy a job writing for a magazine or newspaper. You might find interesting career opportunities as a technical writer in any number of different settings, including government agencies, non-profit organizations, and private industry. Many businesses employ people whose primary responsibility is writing, including advertising firms, public relations firms, and large corporations. These jobs are not always high profile, so identifying them takes some research. Creative writing on a freelance basis is a dream of many English majors and can be combined if necessary with teaching, publishing, or a steady writing job. Depending on the arena you’d like to write in, you may find it useful to pursue a minor in journalism or public relations through the Department of Communication (<https://www.comm.msstate.edu/concentrations/minors>) or a minor in marketing through the College of Business (<https://www.business.msstate.edu/academics/minors>).

Reading and Researching

As with writing, look for jobs researching in places that may not be immediately obvious. Government agencies of various kinds, think tanks, non-profit organizations, and businesses hire people whose primary responsibility is research. Researchers get jobs in radio and television, as well, where people are needed to generate topics and check the accuracy of what is presented.

Law

If what you have loved most about your studies of English literature is the analysis of texts, you might consider law school. English is one of the best undergraduate majors for law students. If this is your goal, do talk to a pre-law advisor; one of them is the English Department's Dr. Matt Little. Also consider pursuing a pre-law minor; see the curriculum here: <https://www.pspa.msstate.edu/academic-programs/minors-certificates/pre-law-minor>.

Education

If it's all about the literature for you, then you'll be thinking about whether teaching literature might be for you. You can teach in a private high school with your English major or become certified through the College of Education to teach in the public schools (see <http://distance.msstate.edu/mats/> for information on the Alternate Route to Certification). With a master's degree in English, you will be qualified to apply for jobs teaching at two-year colleges. With a Ph.D. in English, you will be qualified to apply for jobs at universities. You might also consider exporting your skills and teaching English in other countries; if this appeals to you, consider earning the TESOL minor as part of your undergraduate degree.

Publishing

Whether you think of yourself as primarily a reader or primarily a writer, there are jobs in publishing you might like. Book publishers and magazines need people who read in acquisitions and editing, and people who write in marketing and promotion. Magazines also need people who are primarily researchers to check the accuracy of what they print. English majors are likely to be attractive to employers in these industries and are likely to find they really make good use of their skills in a publishing environment. Minors in journalism or marketing can be useful for English majors going into publishing; for editing specifically, a course that will give you practical skills is CO 2423 News Editing, Typography, and Makeup (with prerequisite CO 2413 Intro to News Writing and Reporting).

Theological Studies

Your analytical skills might also lead to seminary or divinity school. Analyzing texts is an important part of the study of theology. Another important part is understanding the needs of a wide variety of people, and the breadth of human knowledge an English major gains through reading literature can be of considerable use in this regard, as well. You may want to pursue a minor or double major in Religion if you are considering this route.

Librarianship

This career combines reading and research in an environment dominated by books; for librarians at university libraries, writing is also a key component. The English major is excellent preparation for this career, which requires a master's degree in library science.

If you're not drawn to any of these possibilities, remember not to rule anything out; English majors find jobs everywhere. Look through the alumni stories on the department website and visit the career center to get an idea of more options. Also consider identifying a one- or two-year goal for your time immediately after graduation and looking for a job with that goal in mind, while staying open to a variety of long-term possibilities. Many people's careers develop in fulfilling directions that they would never have predicted!

Graduate School for English Majors

Recent English Majors have been accepted into

- English MA/PhD programs
- Creative Writing MFA/PhD programs
- Law Schools
- Linguistics/Applied Linguistics MA/PhD programs
- Business Schools
- Education MA/PhD programs
- Or have pursued the Alternate Route to Teaching Certification in Mississippi

For many of these graduate programs, applicants must take an important standardized exam their junior or senior year: the GRE (Graduate Record Examination), the LSAT (Law School Admissions Test), GMAT (Graduate Management Admissions Test), or Praxis I and II. Check early to find out the exam requirements for any program you're interested in applying to.

Mississippi State University's Computer-Based Testing Services accepts appointments to take most of these exams at its computer based testing center on campus. The Law School Admissions Council offers the LSAT three times a year at a designated location.

These tests are challenging and English Majors who are admitted into nationally ranked programs often prepare for them ahead of time.

The educational testing services at www.ets.org, www.mba.com, or www.lsac.org offer preparation books for each exam, and students can purchase other preparation guides at a local bookstore. Companies such as Stanley Kaplan and Princeton Review also offer courses in test preparation.
